John should not be speaking with a journalist. I sent a separate email to John. Please follow up immediately and ensure that John understands what is obligation is when speaking with the media. All requests need to be routed to the Office of Public Affairs. We don't agree to have conversations separately and then just cc someone up the chain.

This is a sensitive issue. Nebraska has been working on this and Erin Weekly and Jaime Green I believe would be the individuals that OPA would work with.

Subject: request to discuss AltEn

Greetings - We just spoke briefly and agreed to talk tomorrow morning. I'm reaching out for some information and guidance about an ethanol plant called AltEn in Mead, Nebraska and numerous concerns and complaints filed regarding the plant's efforts to dispose of DDGs containing high levels of certain pesticides. I'm told the EPA's regional office - you guys - have been involved and are knowledgeable about the subject.

I'm hoping we can speak tomorrow and/or you can put me in touch with whomever is the correct point person on this if it is not you.

I'm a longtime journalist and book author who writes about agriculture and environmental issues for The Guardian and other outlets. This article is for The Guardian.

Thank you again for your assistance!!

Best regards,

Carey Gillam
